

Peter Stähli to join the board of Renaissance Management AG

Peter Stähli, co-founder of the Swiss Economic Forum (SEF), has been newly elected as board member of Renaissance Management AG. This appointment will further strengthen the company on its way by forging a link between pension funds and SMEs.

Peter Stähli is the co-founder of the Swiss Economic Forum (SEF), which he led as CEO and Chairman for 18 years and developed into a national platform for entrepreneurship. In 2016, the SEF was sold to the Neue Zürcher Zeitung (NZZ). Today, Peter Stähli is an entrepreneur, investor and member of the Board of Directors of several typical Swiss SME's. He is also CEO of the Swiss Entrepreneurs Foundation, which is under the patronage of Federal Councillor Johann Schneider-Ammann.

“Peter Stähli brings highly valuable know-how and an excellent network to Renaissance and therefore also to Swiss SMEs which have been his focus and passion for the greater part of his professional career. I am very pleased to have such an expert on board at Renaissance and am looking forward to our collaboration”, stated Dr. Christian Waldvogel, Managing Partner of Renaissance.

“My joining the Renaissance board underlines and strengthens my continued and long-standing engagement toward Swiss SMEs”, explains Peter Stähli. “I further believe that Renaissance establishes a unique and necessary bridge between the pension funds and the SMEs of this country: Renaissance provides a financially attractive opportunity for Swiss pension funds, while providing much needed financing to the numerous SMEs that will require a succession solution outside of their own family circle within the coming years”.

As a dedicated partner of SMEs, Renaissance finances their succession and growth plans.
